~~~~ In many respects, the game version of Elden Ring is amazing. However, we believe it is a bit of a missed opportunity for so we created this video - you can watch it below or on our YouTube channel. We will continue to provide an official review of the game in the future. ~~~ game video on YouTube ~~~ Its focus is on the RPG aspects of the game, the mechanics. What do you need to know? The game uses a retro-style combat system based on action points. At the start of combat, you are given a number of action points to spend, and your basic attacks consume them automatically. If you want to change to a ranged attack, you need to spend some more action points. Similarly, your actions consume fewer action points if you are using a weaker weapon, so it makes sense to use weaker attacks against tougher enemies. You can also use action points to use a shield to block incoming attacks or to use items. In addition, it is possible to cast magical spells which use up action points as well. We have covered this in the Elden Ring game review, so you can watch that video if you want to see this in action. If you choose, you can then see how we answer the following questions with our video: What is the state of gameplay when you start the game? How do you get to level 1? How do

2015-05-29T01:08:21ZStar Trek Online Hey, brilliant chap. Just had a few minutes to play this and it's both massively overblown and under-designed in places. For example: it was very low on tutorials. I was flying around the shuttle bay for... WAY TOO SWOOSHY and needlessly abstract for my tastes. That said, it is a delightful romp, but just not ME enough.

Bottom line, read my lips: I LOVE the style. Hard ass graphics and a weird feel, but I'm loving it. I'm wondering about game length, but will wait as that is a very good thing. BUT: I CAN'T WAIT TO SEE WHAT THIS IS HEADING INTO NOW! AND NOW I DON'T HAVE TO! The most compelling thing in it -- if you have not already experienced it -- is the explanation of The Adventure Path. It is primarily text, but mainly, text about a Terrible Thing. Yeah! My gut instinct was to send you off at warp speed, to get in the middle of this. But I want to play through before I do that. ]]> Expand Reply paulthegrouch Ooooooooooooooh! This caught my eye because I have been at the Forge all morning playing Magicka: Tales of the Loop.
