The team has also come out with enhancements to gameplay and interaction in FIFA 22. For example, the player motion capture feature allows you to view the movements of your virtual player on the pitch in real-time. You can see the player position the ball at any time, perform a technique, and even run the AI forwards. This is another example of the new realism introduced in the game, and is a major step forward in terms of player interaction and gameplay. "Online multiplayer has always been a key focus for FIFA. It's a major part of the FIFA experience, and we've made some great strides with the next-gen offerings," said Steven Crecco, SVP of Franchise Development at Electronic Arts. "This game is going to be about the new visuals, but it's also about the advancements we've made in terms of gameplay, and if you're not playing with the updated features, you're not really playing the game. These enhancements will make a big difference for players and we're excited about how it will deliver in-depth and realistic gameplay." FIFA 22 also introduces "Run In." When using this tactic, a player can quickly sprint to a designated spot on the pitch and start a three-versus-three soccer match with other attacking players. Run-ins will come in handy in tough circumstances, like breaking free from a defenders tackle or chasing a player down while running away from danger. Finally, support for Pro Clubs and Club Academy are also bundled with FIFA 22. Pro Clubs consist of six teams made up of some of the best players from around the world. Pro Clubs are specially-designed for competitive matches and training. Club Academy allows players to climb through the ranks of a club's youth teams until they're ready to take their first-team spot on the pitch. With enhanced social features and other game-enhancing technology, FIFA 22 is set to feature some of the best gameplay of all time. "FIFA is the most popular soccer video game of all time with over 100 million units sold, so we're working to make sure this new experience for fans is one of the best games ever." Crecco said.
